Topic: The Toyota Way

Speaker: G. Dennis Beecroft

In 1980 Dr. W. Edwards Deming, one of North America's best known quality gurus, wrote a white paper titled If Japan Can Why Can't We? This resulted in thousands of companies visiting Japan to understand and learn their techniques and processes that were transforming the auto industry. Dennis will present his "learning journey" with Toyota starting first with the Japanese Union of Scientists and Engineers in Japan, then Toyota in Kentucky and his several visits to Toyota in Cambridge. In 1990 James P. Womack, Daniel T. Jones, and Daniel Roos published a book The Machine that Changed the World. It was the first book to reveal Toyota's lean production system that is the basis for its success. Dennis will present several contrasting Japanese vs. North American philosophies, including customer focus, JIT/Takt time, supplier problem resolution, ANDON systems, continuous improvement and preventative maintenance.

Speaker Bio: G. Dennis Beecroft, President, G. Dennis Beecroft Inc.

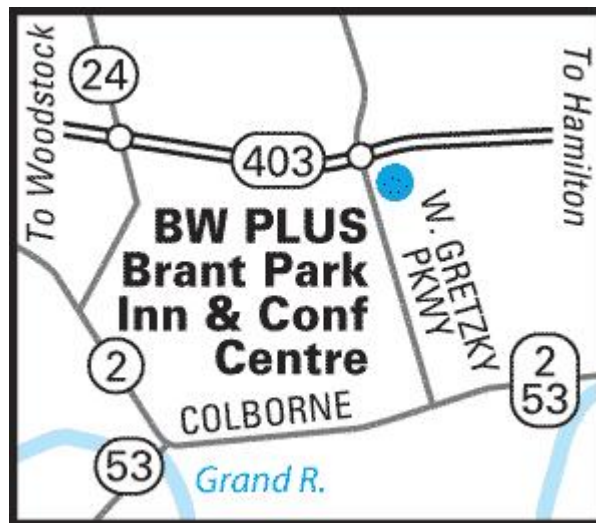

Dennis is President of G. Dennis Beecroft Inc., a management consulting company that specializes in cost of quality, problem solving, quality improvement, training effectiveness and quality management systems. Dennis is a licensed electrical engineer with the Professional Engineers of Ontario, and Fellow member of the American Society for Quality.

Prior to starting his own business, Dennis was the Managing Director of the Institute for Improvement in Quality and Productivity at the University of Waterloo for 14 years. He provided training and consulting for organizations in Canada, United States, Mexico, India, Israel, Singapore, New Zealand, Korea, China and England. Before joining the University, Dennis spent 23 years with Westinghouse Canada in various management positions in manufacturing, engineering, maintenance, project management and quality. Dennis is a past Chair of the American Society for Quality's Quality Management Division representing over 20,000 quality professionals worldwide.

ASQ Healthcare Division

Nightingale Scholarship Announcement

This is a great opportunity for a student to gain some recognition for work related to healthcare quality! ASQ's Healthcare Division will award one annual $2,000 scholarship in honor of Florence Nightingale, the widely recognized initiator of nursing as a profession. The scholarship winner will be announced at the Quality Institute for Healthcare Conference May 21-23, 2012 in Anaheim, CA.

If you are currently a student in an accredited post-secondary institution pursuing studies related to healthcare quality, you may wish to apply for this scholarship.

As a Healthcare Division Member, you may know and wish to sponsor such a student in the competition. This is an excellent opportunity to sponsor and mentor a student who has a focus on Quality in Healthcare!

Please take a moment to check out the scholarship page for the application and additional information: <http://asq.org/health/about/awards-health.html>.

The deadline for submission is January 31, 2012.
